

Ridley Marketing Lug Warranty

Ridley Marketing warrants that each electrical lug sold is free from defects and conforms to the standards found on the applicable standards on the standards page. While manufacturing defects are rare, they will occur and consequently defects should be considered in the safety planning and design of all installations by the your qualified personnel. Any lug having a visible or suspected defect should not be installed but should be returned for inspection by the manufacturer.

Any item that is found, within the warranty period of one year, not to meet these standards after examination and conformation by the manufacturer, will be repaired or replaced without charge at the manufacturer's option. This warranty applies only if all of the conditions of use have been appropriate and as specified, throughout the warranty period, and that the item has not been subject to overloads and that the item has been installed and used subject to all applicable codes and regulations. Liability shall be strictly limited to replacement of defective items and in no event shall Ridley Marketing be liable for any special or consequential damages beyond the original purchase price. The warranties contained herein are made expressly in lieu of any and all other warranties, expressed or implied.
